"Taxs war Hax."—Al Port Hope, Canada, a gentlemantly looking man, recently fell into the Laho, while attempting to load from the butt.—After going down once or twice, by considerable carriem on the part of the Rochester firemen, who worked right instity, he was rescued from his periloos situation, and placed asfely upon the boat. Shaking the water from his well-scaled garreests, he turned to the spot which came as man being a watery grave to him, and with the most deleful countesnance imaginable, exclaimed. "Thors, my het's in the Labe !"

ED" "What alls your hand, Jonathan !"

"There, my hel's in the Lake!"
